

POLICY FOR ADDITIONAL CLASSES

I've had several requests from students (primarily repeat students) about attending "refresher" classes now and then in a level they have already completed. I'm so-o-o impressed I have such diligent and intelligent students :) :) :)

It's true that you really can't absorb all the information offered in any level on a "once through" basis. It's only as you become more advanced, that you realize that there was a lot of critical information that wasn't able to be retained all at the same time.

What I can do about these requests is this: If you wish to attend a class to revisit the information, just show up (after checking on the schedule). The cost will be $6.00 per person and all you have to do is put the tuition in an envelope with your name on it and hand it to me at the beginning of class. You are free to revisit whatever topic you wish. If you simply want added exposure at the Progressive level, you can also make that happen by attending 2 classes in the same week.

Obviously this is going to make me crazy since you are also eligible to make up classes but this is usually done at your own level.

And, not only do I think all my students are diligent and intelligent, I also know that you can be trusted so this policy will run on an honor system.

If you have any suggestions or comments, please don't hesitate to share them with me.
